00-TO ADVERTISERS. The Circulation of this Paper is greater than that of any other published In this City. dence to the Office.

THE NEW YEAR. The commencement of a new year is a season of general felicitation. From the highest efficers of the government to the more humble occupants of the log cabin, congratulations and good wishes are given and received, and each seems resolved to please and to be pleased. Among the most punctual observers of these time-honored customs, are the editors of you live a thousand years."

These customs are innocent and praiseworthy, nutely described. inasmuch as they tend to promote kind seeling "Is a very small man, with long dark hair, and good-fellowship. As proprietors of the "Clipper" we should be most ungrateful did we not participate in the general joy of the season. Our bark, although somewhat baffled in the early part of her voyage by head winds and contrary tides, now skims along "on the smooth surface of a summer sea," fullfreighted and well-manned.

It has been our constant endeavor to render the Clipper worthy of public favor and support, and the extraordinary rapidity with which its circulation and advertising patronage have increased within a few months, affords us the most conclu sive evidence that our exertions have not been in vain. These pleasing marks of approbation shall stimulate us to greater efforts, and we give our readers the pledge, that no labor or expense shall be spared to render the paper still more acceptable. It is now established upon a firm and permanent basis, having a subscription list equal, if not superior, to any other paper in the city, with a steady daily increase, and an augmenting crt A.
